4 Bilateral Joint Projects with National Research Council of Thailand (NRCT)

In order to further enhance Japan-Thai bilateral research cooperation, the Japan Society for the Promotion of Science (JSPS) and the National Research Council of Thailand (NRCT) have jointly implemented a series of bilateral joint projects. These projects aim to foster collaborative research between Japanese and Thai researchers in various fields. The projects are selected based on a rigorous evaluation process to ensure mutual benefit and scientific excellence.

5 Core-to-Core Program

JSPS is currently implementing the Core-to-Core Program, which aims to strengthen the capacity of core research institutions and develop new research areas. This program supports collaborative research between Japan and Thailand in fields such as environmental science, renewable energy, and biotechnology. The program facilitates the exchange of knowledge, skills, and expertise, thereby enhancing the capabilities of both countries in their respective areas of focus.
