Introduction

The frontier of science and technology is expanding rapidly, and should be promoted based on interdisciplinary approach, rather than on traditional academic divisions. To meet the demand, NAIST is established as a new type of national university composed of graduate schools only, to respond flexibly to the developments of science and technology.

Major Activities

NAIST Thailand Office was inaugurated in the premises of the Faculty of Engineering, Kasetsart University on March 9, 2017. It aims to enhance our activities in education at the graduate level and research, and contribute to the advancement of science and technology with Thai partner universities. The office will act as a catalyst for various collaborative activities. For example,

1. Educational cooperation such as lectures, seminars and workshops with Thai partner universities
2. Recruiting international students and selection
3. International public relations and advertisement
4. International career support for our students and alumni
