“Global Initiative for Humanistic Education”

Brief Introduction

Established in 1971 by Daisaku Ikeda, a Buddhist philosopher and lifelong proponent of peace, Soka University has developed advanced academic curricula and support systems based on the mandate that the needs of the students are paramount. Located in Hachioji, a suburb of Tokyo, our verdant campus provides an optimal learning environment and offers one of the most comprehensive and fastest-growing foreign exchange programs in Japan. International students not only have access to a range of scholarships and housing facilities, but are also provided with Japanese study programs and other unique programs taught in English. Our hope is that you will discover your potential at Soka University to make a significant change in the world.

Overview of the Campus

Top Global University Project by MEXT

Soka University was selected as a partner-institution in global human resources development initiative in 2012 and also selected for Top Global University initiative in 2014 to enhance the international competitiveness of Japanese universities and facilitate system reforms by Japan's Ministry of Education, Culture, Science, Sports and Technology (MEXT). In the midterm evaluation, Soka University received the highest rank of "S," praising our results as "excellent progress in achieving the project goals." Out of the 37 universities selected for the project, 6 universities received an S evaluation.
